Instructions for Completing the Required Disclosures

This form uses charts to help you organize and share the required information.
The charts are called "schedules."
You'll see them on the pages after your signature and the Certificate of Service.
Fill in the schedules as completely as you can.

If you have no information to provide on a schedule, be sure to check the box labelled "Not Applicable" in the upper left-hand corner of the page. This will let the other party know that there is no information on that schedule that applies to you.

Important Note: Everything you write on these schedules will be carefully considered, but you might not get exactly the results you are seeking. The Judge will make the final decisions for your case, including deciding how much support will be ordered and how custody will be granted.

Schedule A: Employment. In this chart, you will provide information about your employment, pay, and benefits. Include jobs where you are employed by others, gig work, and self-employment. Fill in each column with the required information. It will be helpful to have your recent pay stubs (also known as "pay advice") with you when you complete this chart.

Schedule B: Other Income. In this chart, you must list all other income that you receive. Fill in each column with the required information.

Schedule C: Custody.

If you want primary custody of your children, you must provide facts that show you would be the better party to have custody. Complete each section, a through h, with the required information.

If you are not asking the Court to give you primary custody, check the correct box in Schedule C. You will skip sections a through g, and you will complete section h.

About section h: If there already is a custody order in your case and you are requesting a new custody arrangement, you must provide facts that show there has been a material change in circumstances (that means that something has changed and the change matters). Attach documents that show or explain this change.

Important Note: You are required to update, correct, and add to the information in these schedules so the other party has complete and accurate information. This is what the law says:

Supplementation of disclosures and responses. Wyoming Rules of Civil Procedure 26(e)(1): A party who has made a disclosure or responded to a request for discovery with a disclosure or response is under a duty to supplement or correct the disclosure or response to include information thereafter acquired, if ordered by the court or in the following circumstances:

> A party is under a duty to supplement, at appropriate intervals, its disclosures if the party learns that in some material respect the information disclosed is incomplete or incorrect and if the additional or corrective information has not otherwise been made known to the other parties during the discovery process or in writing.

b.	Gross Amount (before taxes): Federal Tax: FICA (Social Security): Medicare: Children's Health Ins. Premiums: Total Deductions: Net Amount (after taxes):	Type:	$	Amount you expect to receive:	Date you expect to receive it:
		Type:	$	$
		Type:	$	$
		Type:	$	$

☐ I have attached additional pages.

Important Note: This chart uses the amount per month. You might need to calculate to find the monthly amount.

If you receive money every week:

Multiply the weekly amount by 52 and divide by 12.

If you receive money every two weeks:

Multiply the bi-weekly amount by 26 and divide by 12.

If you receive money twice each month (for example, on the 1st and 15th of each month):

Multiply the semi-monthly amount by 24 and divide by 12.

Use the same calculation to figure out your monthly deductions.
